

SOCIAL STORY

❧ A CHRISTMAS CAROL ❧

Akron
Children's

Connecting for Kids
Resources, support & community for families

CUYAHOGA COUNTY
Board of Developmental Disabilities

MILESTONES
AUTISM RESOURCES

20+ YEARS EDUCATING, COACHING & CONNECTING

Going to see A Christmas Carol

A Christmas Carol is a play.

Seeing a play is like going to a movie with people dancing and singing and talking on a stage.

We will park the car in a parking garage.

Or, I may arrive in a school bus.

Next we will walk through a hallway to the theater.

The theater we are going to is inside a building.

This theater is called the Ohio Theater.

We walk into the lobby.

The lobby of the Ohio Theatre is a large room with a high ceiling. It is very colorful.

The usher tells us where to sit.

There are many people inside the theater.

There will be places to take a break, too.

The theater is very big. We will choose seats we like and then we will wait for the show to start.

I have an inside voice in the theater.

I can hold my squeeze toys or my family's hands.

It's okay to take a break in the lobby.

When the theater gets darker the play will start.

I sit with quiet mouth and body.

Some people clap during the play.

I can clap, too.

Sometimes a play is loud.

That's okay.

I can ask for a break.

Going to see A Christmas Carol is fun.

